Shannon in. Rice singled in timely fashion, scoring Judge, but Harris skied out after both had walked.

Count in Eighth.

Neither team could count again until the eighth, when both made two runs, forcing the decision into extra innings. Courtney walked J. Collins, the first man to face him in this inning, and Eddie Collins picked one against the fence, scoring the right fielder. Jackson's blunder over Judge's head scored the second sacker. Washington's two runs were well earned, three hits off Kerr turning the trick. Johnson was injected as a pinch hitter for Courtney, but was called out on strikes. Judge and Milan then singled in succession and advanced on Rice's infield out, scoring on Roth's clean single to left. Bobby was out stealing.

Shaw got through the ninth inning without trouble, but saw the game lost in the tenth, when the Sox solved him in easy fashion. Leibold, one of the three Chicago right fielders during the day, walked and E. Collins singled, which was unusual, as he was hitting them for two sacks most of the time. Weaver's double scored Leibold and Collins and Jackson's drive over Weaver cut. Having gathered in enough runs to clinch the contest, the next three batters went out in order.

Despite the three-run lead against them, the Nationals went to work in their half of the tenth as if they were determined to cause another tie. Picnich was delegated to bat for Shaw and Jackson went far back for his deep drive. Judge then walked, his third free pass during the day. Milan skied to Jackson, but Judge breezed in on Rice's single to right. When Roth also walked, Manager Gleason banished Dickie Kerr, though he was in the lineup, and called upon Cloutte to render the coupe de grace. Eddie applied the saliva and let 'er fly, Harris sending it into Leibold's paws in right.

Notes of the Game

Thirty-one players, twenty-nine hits and nineteen runs made it quite a baseball game.

Judge had a field day, with three hits and as many walks in six trips to the plate. He also scored half of the local runs, duplicating the feat of Eddie Collins for the day.

Sam Rice seems to have found his batting eye again, one of his four hits being a double. He used his bat in the pinches, driving two teammates across the plate.

Zachary is Griffith's overnight choice to face the Sox today in effort to halt them in their mad career. He will probably be opposed by Williams or Cloutte.

The Griffmen had the bases filled with one out in the fifth, but Collins and Weaver engineered a fast double play which pulled Wilkinson out of the hole.

Fast fielding robbed Murphy of an extra base hit in the sixth, when Roth took his low drive with one hand, on the run.

Gleason switched right fielders as fast as Griffith changed his pitchers. Murphy started, but was replaced by Shane Collins when Courtney was pitching. Then Leibold, another left-handed hitter, was sent in to face Shaw.

The Nationals also registered one in the opening round on Judge's double and Rice's single, but the visitors hung up a run in each of the succeeding rounds. In the second, Wilkinson's triple and Murphy's single did the work. Felch tried the third open with a threebagger and scored on Snyder's wild pitch. A walk to Eddie Collins and Weaver's triple to right registered another in the fourth.

Nationals Tally Two.

Taking advantage of two boots by Weaver, the Griffmen added two to their one run in the fourth. After Roth had singled and Harris had grounded out, Buck booted Ellerbe's grounder. Shannon then hit to Collins, who forced Ellerbe at second, but Roth scored when Weaver tried tossed wild to first in an effort to complete a double play. Gharrity's double brought Shannon home. Snyder skied to McMullen.

Three National runs in the sixth tied it up. Ellerbe and Shannon walked in succession to start things, after which Wilkinson was yanked in favor of Payne. Gharrity sacrificed and Shanks, batting for Snyder, fanned. Judge hit to Collins, scored Ellerbe, and Milan drove Shaw Weakens.

Shaw debuted in the ninth to finish the affair for the locals, but he weakened in the tenth and a walk, a single and two long doubles pushed the Sox score up to eleven, where it remained. The Griffmen counted one more tally in their half of the round, but succumbed to "Eddie Cloutte's" wild when the shine ball was sent in to stop the rally, after two men had been retired. He filled the prescription by forcing Harris to lift one to Nemo Leibold.

The Nationals played a determined up-hill game from the start, and had any of the slabsmen turned the enemy back, should have put the game away in the win column. They were hitting freely and nine runs ought to win anybody's ball game.

Shannon's Miscue Costly.

With the aid of Shannon's error, the Sox annexed three runs in the first. Murphy singled, but was forced on Collins' rap to Harris. Weaver singled and Jackson hit to Shannon, who threw wild in attempting a force play at second, allowing Collins to come home. Felch walked and Jourdan's single scored Weaver and the Shoeless One. When McMullen walked, the bases were full, but Shalk's rap to Schacht was converted into a double play.

PANTHERS BEATEN IN EASY FASHION BY HILLTOP CLUB

Lefty Hyman held the Pittsburgh baseball aggregation to one hit, and Georgetown triumphed on the Hill-top field yesterday 5 to 1. Hyman held the visitors hitless until the eighth, when Bloom, the Pittsburgh slabsman, came through with the only blow of the fray.

Bloom, although twirling creditably, was hit by two opposite batters for counting tallies. Georgetown obtained nine hits, all of which came when men were on the sacks.

COLLYERS COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

Alhena.

Here is another of those Alma B. mavericks jerked forth from the old picking vat. Yes, yes, I know all about the host of "talent" engaged, but that I believe will only make the price a bit juicier. I look for 15 to 1 and your own dough back. Sandym is the medium of an overnight play, and on recent form should be installed favorite and the logical contender. Happy Valley has been shooting along—not gathering—and it is just possible his preparation may have been hurried. Mellora's recent morning trials have bordered on the sensational.

Lord Wrack is the one taken by the clockers to put the bacon where Nellie hung the old black Kettle. Lamp the comment appended: "This race, or rather the conditions, suit this maiden right down to the ground." Stable thinks it a "gut." Personally I like Black Hackle from the Jones' stable. I saw this one work at Hot Springs—fast enough to smother this kind of cattle. Madrid, Nordeck and Phenolax are closely bunched.

The piece de resistance of the card is, of course, the $10,000 handicap at 1 1/4 miles. I am stringing with Col. Bob Baker and King Gorin. The latter showed an excellent effort last time, in fact by far the best race of the band that faced the starter that day—in the Clark. Lind has shown such cracking improvement that I am forced to show him consideration, while Boniface, Be Frank and The Porter follow in the order named.

Down at Jamaica I have a savory morsel in Vice Chairman. The gab appended by the lads is a treat for sore eyes. Listen, simple: "Expect Kummer to have the leg up. The big horse is ready to fly and commissions showed overnight. Go get yours is my best word. Another that seems to have the long end of the purse at her mercy is Careful. Better take the string off the old B. R. and sit pretty."

BOYLSTON, OF FLORIDA, WINS "DIXIE" HANDICAP AT TRAPS

W. N. Boylston, of Leesburg, Fla. and champion trap shooter of that State by breaking 74x75 targets captured the high gun honors in the Dixie Handicap, slated as a stellar attraction which opened the third day shot of the American Traphooting Association, first southern zone handicap tournament, at the Washington Gun Club yesterday.

Resides the winner in this event, four class winners tallied. Class 1 was won by J. E. Pennington, of Tarboro, N. C., with 71 targets, while Class 2 ran into a tie between H. C. Pittman, of Whitaker, N. C., and F. A. Seibert, of New York. When these gunners faced the traps for the shoot-off Pittman carried a perfect score of 29-in-20. Seibert's share was 17 in 20 thus giving Class 2 honors to the Tar Heel gunner.

Class 3 trophy went to J. R. Bonner, of Chicago when he scored 72 X's.

Local Gunner Wins.

S. E. Brooks, the only local trapper to figure in the running in Class 4 event, won when he returned to the firing for a show-off. W. C. Carter, of Front Royal, Va., tied the Washingtonian with 61 X's. Over one hundred men shot in the Dixie Special which was at 75 yard single target, 16 yard raise, five events of 15 targets each.

In the "Dixie," Bart Lewis, champion of America, smashed twenty-four of the clay birds but, being a professional was ineligible for the trophy.

The Preliminary Handicap, which was the feature of the day's sport got under way, at 1 o'clock, twenty squads of five men each, shooting in the event each marksman shooting at 100 singles target, handicap 18 to 23 yards, with one hundred dollars added to the purse.

F. A. Seibert, of New York, won first place honors with 97x100 and takes the American Traphooting Association Trophy. F. M. Roseberry, of Baltimore, Md., with 84 targets, tied with E. J. Eshiman, of Lancaster, Pa. The shoot-off was won by Roseberry, with 20 straight hits. Third trophy of the same event went to M. B. Brooks, of Columbus, S. C., in a shoot-off when he tallied for 14x19 target.

Traps will be in position this morning for the first squad of gunners who will enter the Southern Overture. This event calls for 100 single targets, handicap 16 to 23 yards, with two hundred dollars added to the purse.

Gunners who scored 22 targets or better in the Dixie Special.
